NOTICE

SUR LE MANUSCRIT

GRÉGOIRE DE TOURS

DIT DE BEAUVAIS

A Bibliothèque nationale possède deux des plus anciens manuscrits qui aient été conservés de l'Histoire des Francs de Grégoire de Tours; l'un de ces manuscrits, en écriture onciale, a jadis appartenu au chapitre de Beauvais; l'autre, en cursive mérovingienne, provient de l'antique abbaye de Corbie, en Picardie, et la copie de ces deux volumes remonte, selon toute vraisemblance, à une époque voisine de celle où Grégoire de Tours écrivit son Histoire. Celle-ci ne fut pas composée d'un seul trait; les quatre premiers livres paraissent avoir été rédigés vers 576; les livres V et VI furent ensuite écrits sans doute entre les années 580 et 584 ou 585, et les livres VII à X entre 587 et 591. C'est vers cette dernière date, avant d'avoir terminé la rédaction du X^e livre, que Grégoire de Tours, qui devait mourir en 594, entreprit une revision générale de son Histoire des Francs ¹.

L'écriture minuscule du manuscrit de Corbie (latin 17655) ne permettait pas d'en donner, bien qu'il fût le plus complet des deux, une reproduction réduite; mais une édition diplomatique en a été publiée en 1886 ². Il en est tout autrement du manuscrit de Beauvais (latin 17654), dont le texte présente, il est vrai, quelques lacunes, mais dont la belle écriture onciale prêtait à une reproduction réduite en phototypie, aussi bien que celle de l'Anthologie latine, dite de Saumaise 1, précédemment publiée dans la même collection.

Dans son état actuel, le manuscrit latin 17654 ne se compose plus que de cent neuf feuillets de parchemin, les premiers et derniers très fortement endommagés par l'humidité, mesurant 292 millimètres sur 220 et recouverts d'une reliure en parchemin, qui remonte sans doute aux dernières années du xvie siècle. Chacune de ses pages compte vingt-six lignes d'une grosse écriture onciale régulière, tracée sur une réglure à la pointe sèche, et dont chaque phrase débute par une lettre initiale rehaussée de couleur rouge et quelquefois verte². Une initiale plus grande, semblablement coloriée et ornée de figures d'oiseaux ou de poissons, est peinte au début de chaque chapitre, dont le chiffre est tracé à côté, en marge du texte, à l'encre rouge. On remarque aussi une ornementation analogue, à la fin de chaque cahier, pour la numérotation des cahiers du volume³, dont il ne subsiste plus aujourd'hui que treize

Le manuscrit de Beauvais nous a ainsi conservé, sauf quelques lacunes, le texte des livres II, 3 à V, 22 de l'Histoire des Francs, de Grégoire de Tours, avec les chapitres 7 et 8 du livre VII, qui se trouvent à la fin du livre IV, comme dans les autres manuscrits de la même famille (B de l'édition Arndt-Krusch). Le texte débute par ces mots du chapitre 3 du livre II : « [et dolos episcopi pate]factus in publico. Tunc sancti Dei... » et se termine, au livre V, chapitre 22, par les mots : «... lustro uno nec perfuncto, de[functus est]. » Dans le corps du volume, les livres III, IV et V, précédés des tables de leurs chapitres, commencent respectivement aux fol. 21^{vo}, 51 et 87.

Recueilli dans la seconde moitié du xvie siècle par Antoine Loisel², dont le nom, Ant. Oiselius, se lit au haut du premier feuillet, ce volume, qui avait été l'un des joyaux de l'antique bibliothèque de l'église de Beauvais³, passa bientôt dans les mains du petit-fils de Loisel, Claude Joly⁴, chanoine et chantre de Notre-
